Synthetic jet modeling for flow control applications

Original

Availability:
This version is available at: 11583/1679310 since:

Publisher:

Published
DOI:

Terms of use:
openAccess
This article is made available under terms and conditions as specified in the corresponding bibliographic description in the repository

Publisher copyright

(Article begins on next page)
Abstract: A numerical model of synthetic jet actuator, suitable for flow control simulations, is presented. The controlled flowfield is simulated by a standard CFD method for compressible RANS equations, while flow inside the actuator is reduced to a one-dimensional piston flow. The nonlinear matching between the two systems ensures conservation of the mass, momentum and energy.