Professor Patrick Selvadurai, who passed away on July 30, 2023, was an outstanding and esteemed Associate Editor and Editorial Board member of the International Journal of Geomechanics (IJOG). In 1993, Patrick joined the Faculty of Engineering at McGill University, having previously taught at the University of Aston in Birmingham, UK, and at Carleton University, Canada. He was a prolific researcher, leaving an unparalleled legacy in the disciplines of applied mechanics, geomechanics, solid mechanics, applied mathematics, computational mechanics, and experimental mechanics. In 1986, he received a D.Sc. in Theoretical Mechanics from the University of Nottingham, the first D.Sc. awarded by the Department of Theoretical Mechanics headed by Tony Spencer (A. J. M. Spencer). Over the course of his extensive career in academia, Professor Selvadurai received numerous awards, which highlighted his contributions to the engineering profession, including the Humboldt Senior Scientist Award (Germany), the Killam Research Fellowship (Canada Council for the Arts), the Inaugural John Booker Medal [International Association for Computer

Methods and Advances in Geomechanics [IACMAG]), the Max Planck Research Prize in the Engineering Sciences (Max Planck Gesellschaft, Germany), The Killam Prize for Engineering (Canada Council for the Arts), and the “Outstanding Contributions Medal” of IACMAG.

In recognition of his professional achievements and contributions to our journal, papers authored or coauthored by Professor Selvadurai are listed in the following, together with papers by other authors in IJOG that cite these papers.
